

Expanded widget:

Acts as flex box in css, it takes up the all available space in the sreen.

We can use to align the children within it.

I used it to make the image in the project taking all the available space in the screen, and centered the image so it can be fully shown.

I also used it to separate the images from the list with the add button. I separated them horizontally.